Permit Volume Overview

San Francisco issued 838 building permits this month. The bulk of activity — 775 permits (92.5%) — consisted of over-the-counter alteration permits, which cover interior remodels, tenant improvements, and routine property upgrades. Structural additions and alterations accounted for another 33 permits (3.9%), while ground-up new construction represented 2 projects (0.2%) of total volume. Demolition activity stood at 0 permits this period.

Permit Type	Count	Share
OTC Alterations	775	92.5%
Additions / Alterations	33	3.9%
New Construction	2	0.2%
Signs	28	3.3%
Demolitions	0	0.0%

Project Valuation

The combined declared value of all permitted projects this month totaled $81.80 million, with an average project valuation of $97,842. San Francisco consistently ranks among the highest-cost construction markets in the country, reflecting both elevated material and labor costs. High declared valuations signal opportunity for contractors and trade specialists operating in premium markets.

Neighborhood Activity

Permit activity was spread across San Francisco's diverse neighborhoods. Financial District/South Beach led all areas with 87 permits (10.4% of city total). The table below highlights the six most active neighborhoods this month — a useful guide for targeting canvassing, outreach, and job sourcing.

Neighborhood	Permits	Share
Financial District/South Beach	87	10.4%
Sunset/Parkside	53	6.3%
Castro/Upper Market	52	6.2%
West of Twin Peaks	47	5.6%
Outer Richmond	45	5.4%
Mission	43	5.1%

ADU & New Construction Activity

Accessory Dwelling Units (ADUs) and new construction permits represent two of the most opportunity-rich segments for contractors. This month, 4 ADU permits were issued (0.5% of total), alongside 2 new construction permits (0.2% of total). San Francisco's housing policies have made ADUs a particularly active category — the city has streamlined its ADU approval process, creating a steady pipeline of garage conversions, basement units, and backyard cottages across virtually every neighborhood.

Existing Property Use Breakdown

Understanding what types of properties are receiving permits helps contractors identify which market segments are most active. The table below shows the top property use categories being permitted this month.
