Permit Volume Overview

San Francisco issued 2,058 building permits this month. The bulk of activity — 1,886 permits (91.6%) — consisted of over-the-counter alteration permits, which cover interior remodels, tenant improvements, and routine property upgrades. Structural additions and alterations accounted for another 64 permits (3.1%), while ground-up new construction represented 9 projects (0.4%) of total volume. Demolition activity stood at 28 permits this period.

Permit Type	Count	Share
OTC Alterations	1,886	91.6%
Additions / Alterations	64	3.1%
New Construction	9	0.4%
Signs	29	1.4%
Demolitions	28	1.4%

Project Valuation

The combined declared value of all permitted projects this month totaled $224.50 million, with an average project valuation of $110,266. San Francisco consistently ranks among the highest-cost construction markets in the country, reflecting both elevated material and labor costs. High declared valuations signal opportunity for contractors and trade specialists operating in premium markets.

Neighborhood Activity

Permit activity was spread across San Francisco's diverse neighborhoods. Bayview Hunters Point led all areas with 189 permits (9.2% of city total). The table below highlights the six most active neighborhoods this month — a useful guide for targeting canvassing, outreach, and job sourcing.

Neighborhood	Permits	Share
Bayview Hunters Point	189	9.2%
Financial District/South Beach	166	8.1%
Sunset/Parkside	140	6.8%
Mission	115	5.6%
West of Twin Peaks	110	5.3%
Marina	100	4.9%

ADU & New Construction Activity

Accessory Dwelling Units (ADUs) and new construction permits represent two of the most opportunity-rich segments for contractors. This month, 8 ADU permits were issued (0.4% of total), alongside 9 new construction permits (0.4% of total). San Francisco's housing policies have made ADUs a particularly active category — the city has streamlined its ADU approval process, creating a steady pipeline of garage conversions, basement units, and backyard cottages across virtually every neighborhood.

Existing Property Use Breakdown

Understanding what types of properties are receiving permits helps contractors identify which market segments are most active. The table below shows the top property use categories being permitted this month.

Existing Use	Permits	Share
